PSALM CXVIII. 27,

GOD is the Lord, who hath shewed ed us Light; bind the Sacrifice with Cords to the Horns of the Altar.

THE Words are the Exclamation of a grateful and pious Soul at the Review of some great and signal Deliverance.

Light is, in Scripture, used to denote fomething that gives Joy and Satisfaction to the Mind. The being saved therefore from any mighty Danger, or the obtaining any great Victory, or important Success, is express'd by shewing Light.

What the particular Favour was which the Pfalmist here celebrates, or the Occasion of his composing this elegant Song of Triumph, does not evidently appear. It seems ned over very numerous and powerful Enemies, who had press'd him extremely hard, and driven him to great Distress. All Nations compassed me about (he says in v. 10.). There was a dangerous Confederacy of all the neighbouring States against him, they compassed me about like Bees, yea they compassed me about like Bees; but in the Name of the Lord will I destroy them: Thou hast thrust sore at me that I might fall, but the Lord helped me [a].

[a] Never, probably, has this Scripture been more remarkably fulfilled, than it is at this Time, in that unparalleled Hero, our great Ally, the Monarch of Pruffia. Supported by the Hand of Heaven, he hath not only withstood, but gloriously triumph'd over, one of the most powerful and tremendous Confederacies that ever was form'd against any Prince upon Earth. The two potent and great Empires of Germany and Russia, the Queen of Hungary, the warlike Nation of the Swedes, the King of Poland and Elector of Saxony, and the very opulent and powerful Kingdom of France, - These all, at the same Time, have compassed around this iliustrious Prince, and poured in mighty Armies to oppress and overwhelm him. Their most violent Attacks, with invincible Fortitude, he has hitherto repulsed; and with a Bravery, which no History can equal, he hath succesfively fought, heat, and triumphed over them all.

In this perilous State, to which the powerful Combination of his Enemies had reduced him, the Pfalmist directs his Eye and his Expectation, where every wife Person will naturally direct them, in Circumstances of great Trouble, even to the Ever-present and Almighty King, who presides uncontrouled over all the Counsels and Operations of the Princes of this Earth; who with insinite Ease can blast and overthrow them, and into the Pit which they have dug tor others, can cause their own Feet to be taken and to fall.

I called upon the LORD in my Distress (as in ver. 5, 6,); the LORD answered me, and set me in a large Place. The LORD is on my Side, I will not fear what Man can do unto me. The LORD taketh my Part with them that belp me; therefore shall I see my Desire upon them that hate me. With this All-powerful ALLY engaged on his Side, he securely desires any dangerous Confederacies which his Enemies, however numerous, could form to overwhelm him.

And as the Wisdom of this Great Prince and General was shewn in thus imploring Divine Help, and expecting Victory and Success principally from the Hand of Heaven: So, when Victory was given him, the true Greatness and Wisdom as well as Goodness of his Heart no less evidently appear, in the grateful Acknowledgements which he solemnly makes. Open to me the Gates of Righteousness; I will go into them, and I will praise the Lord. I will praise Thee, for Thou hast heard me, and art become my Salvation. Ver. 19, 21.

True Magnanimity is never found in the Soul where Ingratitude dwells. Generous and great Minds will be always most ready to acknowledge Obligations. To receive, then, fignal and distinguishing Bleffings from Heaven, but to feel no grateful Emotions, no Elevations of Heart in thankful Acknowledgments to the Almighty Benefactor, indicates a very base and degenerate State of Mind.

The Christian Sabbath is a Day sacred to the Purposes of Festivity and Joy. It calls us to commemorate that greatest of all Bleffings, which the Father of Mercies hath beflowed upon Mankind, namely, Salvation and Life by his Son Jesus Christ. It calls us to rejoice in Christ, as our exalted Saviour and King; who, for his Sufferings on Earth, is now vested with all Power and Authority in Heaven: Made Head over all Things, for the Benefit of his Church: Who will ever faithfully exert that Power which is given him, for the Protection and Support of all righteous and good Men; to conduct them fafe through the prefent World, and to bring them to immortal Glory and Felicity in the other.

It is principally to call to Mind, and to celebrate these Spiritual Blessings, that we are to assemble on the Christian Sabbath. But in the Course of Divine Providence there are sometimes conferr'd upon us great temporal Blessings, which demand also a particular and very grateful Regard. To these, therefore, on such Occasions, we may also with with Propriety turn our Attention: and facrifice to the Almighty Giver the Sacrifice of Praise, giving Thanks to his Name.

We have lately manifested great external Indications of Joy at an important Success given to our Arms: but have these been attended with proper Sentiments of the Mind; with genuine Impressions of religious Veneration and Gratitude on the Heart? Have we taken off our Eye from the Instruments and second Causes employ'd in these Events, and directed it to that Supreme, Invisible, Almighty HAND which rules uncontrouled in the Kingdoms of Men, and dispenses its Blessings to whomsoever it pleases?

Let the Emotions of our Joy, upon every fuch Occasion, break forth in the pious Language of the great Commander in our Text,— GOD is the Lord who hath shewed us Light: bind the Sacrifice with Cords to the Horns of the Altar. From which Words it may be observed,

First; That in all the Successes and Blessings we enjoy, we are religiously to observe, and to acknowledge the Hand of Heaven, from whose Favour and Operation they principally come, saying, GOD is the Lord who bath shewed us Light. And

First,

Secondly; That upon the Receipt of such Blessings, Gratitude will prompt every ingenuous and well-disposed Mind to make some proper Returns; and to say, in a Christian Sense, bind the Sacrifice with Cords.

First: In all the Successes and Blessings we enjoy, we are religiously to observe, and to acknowledge the Hand of GOD, from whose Favour and Operation they principal-pally come.

It was for this that we are made wifer than the Fowls of the Air; and have Reason and Understanding given us; a Ray, as it were, of the Divine Nature; opening a delightful Intercourse b twixt God and our Souls. It was, that by the proper Exercise of our Reason, assisted and strengthened by B

the Light of Revelation, we might see and adore the Ever-present DEITY, as he shows himself to us in all the wonderful Operations of his Power and Goodness which compass us around, and continually follow us.

Not attentively to regard, therefore, the Works of the Lord, and the Operations of his Hands: to enjoy every Day a rich Profusion of the Blessings of Life, but never once in the Day to lift a grateful Eye to the invisible Hand from whom they proceed; is to stand guilty before GOD of the basest Ingratitude: and to such stupid and unworthy Persons it is expressly denounced, that they shall be destroyed, and not built up. Psa. xxviii. 5.

Let us look around then upon the Profufion of Bleffings and Gifts with which every returning Day comes crowned from above; and awaken our Minds to fome fuitable Returns to the All-bountiful GIVER. Not to infift at present on those Spiritual Blessings, pertaining to Heavenly Things, given us by Jesus Christ, which are the principal and grand Objects of our Contemplations and Praise every Lord's-day; let us, at present, more particularly attend to those temporal Blessings pertaining to Earthly Things, by which we are distinguished from the Nations around us.

That, through the Favour of Divine Providence, our Lot was cast in a Country whose Climate is so temperate, whose Lands are so fertile, whose Trade so extensive, and whose Government fo mild: --- That by the Watry Bulwark that furrounds us we are in great Measure defended from the sudden Irruption of wasteful and destructive Arms:---That by a most happy Constitution we are as fecurely guarded, as human Prudence, perhaps, can guard us, agrinst the Violence and Oppression of regal Tyranny on the one hand, and against popular Insurrections and Tumults on the other: --- That we live under the Protection of wife and good Laws; and under an Administration, in the general, fo equitable and just; which secures to us the Fruits of our honest Industry and Skill; fo that what we rightfully acquire we can peacefully enjoy; and have no hostile Invaders, no infolent rapacious Farmers of Revenue, no infiduous Informers to terrify or oppress us. --- Finally; That thro' the benign Influences of the Heavens, both foftening and warming the Bosom of the Earth, it hath so plenteously brought forth, not for our Support only, but for our Entertainment and Delight; --- and that so favourable a Season hath hitherto been given us for the Preservation of those Fruits with which his Bounty hath crown'd the Earth .-- These, to every Mind not deep funk into Ingratitude and Stupidity, must appear Blessings most worthy his serious and attentive Notice, and his daily Returns of Praise.

But, to heighten his grateful Sense of the many National Blessings which as Britons we enjoy, let him compare the present political State of this Kingdom with what it has been in almost every Age past. Let him look back to antient Times, and see how often it has been invaded, conquered, ravaged, by Saxons, Danes, Normans, from Abroad; and what perpetual destructive Wars betwixt the Northern and the Southern Kingdoms of this Isle, before their happy Union, for many fuccessive Ages, spread Ruin over all its Borders, and drench'd it with Blood. --- Let him fee our brave Ancestors groaning under a most cruel Ecclesiastical Oppression! weakened, impoverish'd, by a most dangerous and most expensive Continental Connection! a Subjection to the Church of Rome! their Wealth drain'd (not to support Troops who are spilling their Blood for the Liberties of Europe and the common Rights of Mankind), but to pamper foreign Priests in Luxury and Pomp! their Kings trembling at an Interdict or Bull from the Roman Pontiff: and the People struck with an universal Terror, as if some tremendous Evil was ready to fall upon them! --- Let him look back to the long and the bloody Contests betwixt the Kings and the Barons: betwixt the two powerful Royal Houses of Lancaster and York: betwixt the King and the Parliament, in a later Period of Time: and fee Britans Britons rifing in dreadful Arms against their Fellow-Britons:— War spreading its Horrors over all our frighted Towns: Brethren and Fellow-Citizens slaming with cruel Rage, and persecuting one another to Ruin and to Death.

But to give him a yet juster Sense of the Felicity of our present State, let him look to neighbouring Kingdoms; and fee the Terror and Distress which hath spread, and is now spreading, from Province to Province, by the Inroads of mighty Armies: ---What Countries have been ravaged! what Cities impoverished! What Family is not now mourning a Father, a Brother, a Husband, or Son, flain in the many Battles lately fought! What Thousands are deprived of Liberty; shut up in unwholesome Prisons, or languishing in Hospitals under Sickness and Wounds! And how many ten Thousands fallen Victims to the Sword. and fent down to the Realms of Death!

When we see the Horror and Desolation with which War hath overwhelmed other ferlile fertile and happy Countries, Countries nearly allied to us, what Thanks (Fellow-Britons), what Thanks, do we all owe! what Tribute of humble Praise and Adoration should we pay to the Supreme and Almighty SOVEREIGN, by whose Providence the like Scenes of Confusion and Distress are kept from furrounding us? United Thanks be now paid, by every grateful Briton, to that watchful Care of HEAVEN which hath from Time to Time blafted the many dangerous Attemps a powerful and fubtle Enemy hath been continually making on us. ---That though at present engaged in a doubtful and bloody War, we only feel its Expence (a comparatively light Weight), but fee nothing of its Horrors: These are carried over to our Enemy's Coasts; where Terror and Confusion spread from Province to Province; whilst we, through Heaven's Mercy, fit each under his own Roof in Security and Peace.

These favourable and happy Circumstances, which attend our present political Situation, it most highly becomes us very seriously oully to observe, and gratefully to ascribe to the Providence of that GOD who is KING over all the Kings and Princes of this World: who profides over all their Counfels, and controuls their Operations by his fovereign Pleasure: Who hath check'd our insulting Foes in their late dreadful Career who hath bless'd with surprising Victories the Arms of our Allies; --- and hath now been pleafed to give some glorious and important Success to our own: and that in an Expedition fo dangerous, and in a Conquest fo important [b,] so comparatively few Lives of our brave Countrymen were lost, is a Circumstance which deserves our Adoration of that POWER, who can cover in a Day of Battle, and who is able to preserve alive amidst the thickest Arrows of Death.

Having taken this general View of the National and Public Bleflings we at present enjoy, we proceed to observe,

Secondly, That on the Receipt of such Blessings Gratitude will prompt every ingenuous nuous and well-disposed Mind to make some proper Returns; and to say (in a Christian Sense) bind the Sacrifice with Cords.

What Shall I render to the Almighty BE-NEFACTOR -- is a Sentiment which will arise in every grateful Heart on such Occasions of Joy. For Answer;

First: We are to ascribe the Victory and the Praise supremely to GOD, to whom alone it most justly and rightfully belongs.

Though we are not to overlook the Bravery, or the Skill, of the Persons employ'd in our National Desence: but the Wisdom that plann'd, and the Courage that executed, Schemes of great Benefit and Importance to the Public, are most justly intitled to public Honours and Esteem; to public Praise and Reward: Yet it is by no Means to be admitted -- That the Bravery of Troops bas, and always will ensure Success. This is a wrong Maxim, of the Error of which we have had a too recent and too melancholy

Proof [c]. A flight Acquaintance with the History of Mankind is sufficient to shew, that the Race is not always to the Swift, nor the Battel to the Strong That there is no King certainly and infallibly faved by the Multitude, the Discipline, or the Bravery, of his Host. The greatest Generals, both Pagan and Chriflian, have frequently acknowledged, that the Fate of Battels hath been often turn'd, and their Event depended upon Things, which no human Prudence was able to forefee, nor Courage to prevent. Success, therefore, in these is ever chiefly to be ascribed to the Favour of that GOD, who calls himself the Lord of Hosts; and who claims it as his Prerogative to dispense Victory and Power to whomsoever he pleases. To Him, then, in every fuch happy Event, let the Glory and the Praise be supremely ascribed. ----GOD is the Lord who hath shewed us Light: let us fay, with the great Warrior in our Text, I will not trust in my Bow; nor shall mine own Sword save me: but THOU hast saved us from our Enemies: THOU hast put them to Shame who rose up against us. In GOD, therefore.

[c] In the Repulse at Ticonderago.

therefore, will we boast all the Day long, and praise his Name for ever and ever [d].

Secondly. A proper Return also for Successes vouchsafed us is, to bear with becoming Fortitude any Checks or Disappointments which may be given to our Arms; and to encourage ourselves by an humble Trust in Divine Providence, for the future.

It

[d] Though the Conduct and Valour both of our Commanders and our Troops, in the late Conquest of Cape-Breton, merits great Praise; yet that not to these that Event is principally to be ascribed, seems evident from the Account of that Affair given by a Gentleman, dated from on board the Burford, Louisbourg Harbour, July 28. 1758 .-- who fays, "The Enemy had made " fuch strong Entrenchments all along the Shore, &c. " that if they had defended them with as much Brave-" ry, as they had been judiciously made, we might " have lost most of our Army, but could not have 66 forced them. But some lucky unforeseen Circumstances " co-operating with a Bravery and Ardor in our Offi-" cers and Soldiers, which deferve the highest Admirast tion and Praise; together with the pusillanimous and 66 dastardly Behaviour of the Enemy: or to judge more favourably, as they excuse themselves, being beyond " Measure surprised (as judging the Descent absolutely " impracticable) a Pannic having feized their Troops; " all concurring, rendered the Landing (which might have been most unfortunate) a most happy Event; " and a Subject of Surprise and Admiration."

put OD, fore, It is the Property of weak Minds to fink foon under Disappointments; to murmur and despond, and to give way to tumultuous Fears at unfavourable Events. True Magnanimity is never so much shewn as in bearing up with Composure under the Presture of mighty Difficulties, and in sustaining Disappointments with a calm and unruffled Mind.

· And there is nothing which fo much conduces to give this Calmness, this Firmness, this Greatness to the human Soul, as that Faith in GOD, and in his Providence, which the Gofpel inspires, where it is fincerely received. This Faith where it operates, in its genuine and full Force, will render the Mind superior to all the Terrors of this World: will arm it with Courage when furrounded with the thickest Dangers: and will cause it to triumph over the Horrors of Death itself. Why are ye afraid, O ye of little Faith! thought, to be swallowed up of the Deep. Yet even in these Circumstances of extremest apparent Danger, their Minds might have been kept calm, had their Faith in GOD's Providence, and in the Power of their Divine Master, been as firm as it ought.

But to our exercifing this Faith in GOD, and Hope in his Protection, it is ever to be remembered, a Care to cleanse ourselves from all known Sin, and to walk in all Integrity and Uprightness before Him, is indispensibly necessary. To the Wicked, GOD saith What hast Thou to do to take my Covenant into thy Mouth! The Consolations of Religion belong only to those whose Lives are conducted by a Regard to its Laws.

And as in the Success of our public Affairs, every Lover of his Country, and Lover of Himself, will consider himself as deeply concern'd; so these should he, every Day, religiously commend to the Favour of that GOD, who sovereignly presides over all the Kingdoms of Men: who streightens or enlarges; lifts up, or casts down, according to his his Pleasure: and upon whom the Fate of Battels and of Empires depend. Those, e-specially, who are gone forth to fight our Battels for us, should be born upon our Minds, when we present ourselves before that GOD, without whom not a Sparrow falls to the Ground. For how ungenerous a Part were it, not to follow with our ardent Prayers those who are now encountering the Dangers of the Sea, and the Perils of the Camp, that we may live at Home in Sasety and Peace.

Thirdly: To render our Prayers and Thanksgivings truly acceptable to GOD, they ought ever to be attended with Acts of generous Compassion and Beneficence to Men.

ons, and in beneficent and good Actions: not willing, nor content to be happy alone: but desiring to communicate of our Pleafure; and to make others rejoice with us.

It was upon this kind, this benevolent, and generous Plan, that the Sacrifices of the Tewish Law, referr'd to in our Text, were instituted by GOD. When any peculiar Bleffing had been conferr'd, any Victory obtain'd, or Deliverance receiv'd, and a Person, under that Dispensation, defired to make a folemn Declaration of his Thankfulness to GOD for it, and to express in a religious Manner his Joy on that Occasion: he was directed to take a Beast from the Flock, or the Herd, and to bring it to the House of GOD; where it was flain before his Altar; as an Acknowledgement, that to bis Bleffing and Favour the Worshipper confider'd himself as principally indebted for the Mercy receiv'd.

And as such Occasions of Joy tend to open and enlarge the Heart; so this religious Ceremony was wisely adapted both to cherish cherish and to express Benevolence to Men. For the Sacrifice being flain, a Part was given to the Priest, together with a Meat Offering of Oil, and of fine Flour, for him and his Family to eat, and rejoice together, before the GOD whom he ferved. And the rest was given back to the Person who brought the Sacrifice, to be eaten with his Friends; whom he invited to feast, and to rejoice with him on this Occasion. And is very worthy to be observed, that none of the Meat was to remain till the Morrow. Levit. vii. 15. But the Flesh of the Sacrifice of the Offering for Thanksgiving shall be eaten the same Day that it is offered: Ye shall not leave any of it till the Morning.

This was mercifully and wifely ordered to prevent all criminal Frugality from mingling with this Sacrifice: That the Heart on this Occasion might have full Scope to dilate itself, without any unbecoming or parsimonious Restraint. That the Worshipper, who brought the Sacrifice, might be induced to invite a sufficient Number of Friends to feast, and to rejoice with him, and that what what themselves did not eat might be given to the Poor.

Thus the two great Branches of all real Religion, the Love of GOD and of our Neighbour, were wifely regarded in this Institution: And that noble and divine Maxim which, in the Christian Dispensation, is deliver'd in Words, was here, as in a Figure, and more obscurely injoin'd, namely, That he who loves God, must love his Brother also.

Brute Sacrifices, indeed, are now abolifhed; but the Principle of Social-Benevolence, of Generolity and Compassion, upon which they were chiefly founded, remains, and is of eternal immutable Obligation, and oblige now with superior Force. To do Good, and to communicate, is a Command of the Christian Law, which declares these to be the Sacrifices which GOD now demands from us, and with which He will be well pleased, Heb. xiii. 16. And such Acts of generous Communication the Apostle pronounces an Odour of a sweet Smell, a Sacrifice acceptable, and well pleasing to GOD. Phil. iv. 18.

Having received, then, such Mercy from GOD, let it effectually excite us to shew Mercy to Men. Blessed is he that considereth the Poor; the LORD will deliver him in Time of Trouble: The LORD will preserve him, and keep him alive, and he shall be blessed upon the Earth: and Thou wilt not deliver him into the Will of his Enemies. Psa. xlii. 1, 2.

Severe, but, perhaps, too just, have been the Cenfures lately pass'd upon the Degeneracy of the Principles and Manners of the Times: But may it not be hoped, that the Symptoms which threaten an approaching Diffolution are more than counter-balanced by the Vigor with which the Principles of generous Benevolence, of Candor, and Charity, still flourish in the Land? ---What Compassion to the Needy; what Readiness to relieve the Helpless and Forlorn, hath, on a Variety of Occasions, appeared to be a Glory still dwelling among us! In what Nation under Heaven is there so ample Provision made to soften the Toils of the labouring Hand; and either to prevent or to supply the Necessities of the Poor!

If Charity will cover a Multitude of Sins --- If Alms fight for us against Enemies, better than a mighty Shield or a strong Spear -- If he that hath Pity on the Poor, lendeth to the Lord: and that which he hath given, He will pay him again --- If to the not Hardening our Hearts against the Poor that is among us, but to the Opening our Hand wide, to give him that which he wants, it is said, that for this Thing D 2

[e] The Poor-Rate in England is faid to amount, one Year with another, to Three Millions a Year.

GOD will bless us in all our Work, and in all that we put our Hand unto --- And, to Him that disperses and gives to the Poor, his Horn shall be exalted with Honour: --- If there is a GOD, who rules in Heaven, whose Promises these are; and who in the Course of his Providence will certainly sulfil them --- Then the Riches, the Power, the High Rank among the Nations which Britain possesses, is, perhaps, principally to be ascribed to that noble and extensive Charity, to that generous Compassion to the Indigent and Distress'd, with which it stands distinguished from all the Kingdoms of the Earth.

To conclude. A most proper Return also for the National and Public Blessings which as Britons we enjoy, is, that we be led by them to Repentance --- That we turn from those evil Practices which we know to be offensive to our Almighty Benefactor --- That we never abuse the Bounties of his Providence to Luxury, Pride, or unmaply Excess --- That we pay him the just Tribute of our Adoration and Thanksgivings at the Seasons of his solemn Worship ---- And that

And that that having, by fuch marvellous Operations of his Providence, been frequently delivered out of the Hands of our Enemies, we should serve and walk before him, in all Rightcousness and Holiness all the Days of our Life.

Thus shall we stand prepared for whatever Changes or Revolutions may be fuffered to come upon us. To fuch Upright there ariseth Light in the darkest Scenes of Tribulation. They fit as upon Safety's Rock, and may there fing the triumphant Strains which the Psalmist hath taught them, Psa. xlvi. 1, 2, 3. GOD is our Refuge and Strength, a very present Help in Trouble; therefore will not we fear though the Earth be removed, tho' the Mountains be carried into the midst of the Sea: though the Waters thereof roar and be troubled; though the Mountains shake with the fwelling thereof. Rejoice in the Lord, therefore, O ye Righteous; for in every Circumstance of Life Serenity and Joy become those who are upright. Almighty Power is their Guard: unerring Wisdom their Guide: inexhauible, everlasting Goodness their Portion and great Reward. Whatever Clouds may, may, for a Season, spread Darkness around, Light is surely sown for them; and will, in the appointed Time, gloriously break forth. GOD's Covenant stands firm: to them all Things shall issue well. Having pass'd, in a becoming Manner, any Scenes of Tribulation Divine Providence may assign them, in this State of Discipline upon Earth, they will rise to so much the higher Honours, and receive so much the more exceeding and eternal Weight of Glory, in the everlasting Kingdom in Heaven.

To which happy State may we finally arrive, through the Grace, and by the Spirit, of our exalted Saviour JESUS CHRIST! to whom be Glory and Dominion, World without End. Amen.
